FIVEPOINT™

Orange County already has one of the most accessible and extensive walking/biking trail systems in the nation. On Saturday morning, June 15, the greater community will celebrate the opening of the region's latest nature trail in the heart of Irvine on a WORLD stage... and make history in the process...by filling the 1.5-mile Bosque trail at the Orange County Great Park with the goal of breaking a world record for the longest high-five chain (set at 3,473)!

FivePoint and the City of Irvine are co-presenting the "Great High Five and Bosque Celebration" with the epic high five chain beginning promptly at 8am.

You'll see a diverse mix of people from ages nine to ninety along the new Bosque trail — particularly community-minded schools, businesses, and nonprofits — uniting in a quest to soak in nature, enjoy coffee/juice/water and other early-morning refreshments, greet fellow participants, experience on-site activities and Instagram-able moments, and... break a record!

To participate, simply visit highfiveirvine.com to sign up. The first 3,500 signing up or anyone signing up by Friday May 31 (whichever comes first) gets a free gift package at the event that includes a wearable drawstring bag, commemorative T-shirt and other prizes.

People/teams signing up will receive detailed information by email during the week of June 3 (directions, parking info, a trail map, where to check-in and claim gift bags, designated meeting areas for teams with large groups, and how the domino-like High-Five Chain will work and be documented for review by the Guinness Book of World Records).
